

K and V use independent color scales; colors are not comparable across panels.